A generous grant from the New Canaan Community Foundation allowed the Norwalk Symphony Orchestra to perform a variety of musical pieces for community members who benefit from its music programs, but who ordinarily find it difficult to attend regularly scheduled performances without this outreach effort. Recent performances were held at Waveny Care Center for residents and Adult Day Care program participants, as well as at Norwalk Concert Hall for residents from South Avenue Cottage.

"The generous support of New Canaan Community Foundation made this and other performances possible," said Jane Shelly, Executive Director of the NSO. "The Foundation allows us to bring joy through music to many residents of New Canaan through community-based music programs."
